

Privacy Policy

[Update effective April 24, 2024]

First Republic is now part of JP Morgan Chase. On May 1, 2023, JP Morgan Chase acquired the substantial majority of assets and assumed the deposits and certain liabilities of First Republic from the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

As used in this Privacy Policy, “we,” “our” and “us” refer to First Republic now part of JPMorgan Chase. “JPMorgan Chase” means JPMorgan Chase Bank, N.A., its subsidiaries, affiliates, successors and/or assigns (collectively, “First Republic”).

1. Introduction

First Republic respects your privacy. This Privacy Policy (this “Policy”) describes our policies and practices with respect to our collection, protection, use and sharing of Personal Information (“PI”). This Policy also describes a subset of PI called Sensitive Personal Information (“SPI”).

We may add to, delete or otherwise change the terms of the Policy from time to time. When we make changes, we will post the amended policy on our website, firstrepublic.com (the “Site”). Any changes to the Policy will become effective immediately upon our posting of the Policy, and your use of the Site and our services is deemed to constitute your agreement with the Policy terms. Please be sure to check the Policy before providing us with PI. We encourage you to review the Policy carefully, as it relates to your experience with First Republic, from exploring a potential partnership, to opening and maintaining an account with us, to including additional services that support your evolving financial needs.

If you are, or apply to become, a customer of First Republic with respect to products or services used primarily for personal, family or household purposes, you have additional privacy rights, as reflected in our Federal customer privacy notice (<https://www.firstrepublic.com/-/media/frb/documents/pdfs/privacy/privacy-notice.pdf>) and our California-specific customer privacy notice (https://www.firstrepublic.com/-/media/frb/documents/pdfs/privacy/privacy\_notice-california.pdf)

2. What is Personal Information (“PI”) and Sensitive Personal Information (“SPI”)?

We define PI as information that identifies, relates to, describes, references, is reasonably capable of being associated with, or could reasonably be linked, directly or indirectly, with you, your household, or your communications device (computer, tablet, mobile phone, etc.). We define SPI as PI that reveals a person’s government identifier, account login information, precise geolocation, racial or ethnic origin, genetic data, religious or philosophical beliefs, union membership, identifying biometric information, health, sexual orientation or identity, or the contents of communications of which we are not an intended recipient. We commit to using PI responsibly and safeguarding it according to our detailed security standards. In no event do we sell your or others’ PI.

3. How Does First Republic Collect and Store Your Personal Information and What Types Does It Collect and Store?

First Republic collects PI about you when you actively provide it to us, such as by completing an online form, providing PI at your discretion or responding to a request for information, or providing your email address or phone number if you decide to opt in to any of our communications options, such as receiving text messages or emails from us. We also will collect any additional PI you may send to us by text, email or otherwise.

We also may collect PI about you from the following sources: our affiliates; the internet, including social media websites and other websites; other financial institutions with whom you have accounts, if you elect to have an account aggregation service; conferences; the press or other print media; credit reporting agencies; and other persons (including persons who might refer you to us for a possible customer relationship) and organizations as permitted under applicable law.

When you provide First Republic with PI deemed to be particularly sensitive, we categorize it as SPI and treat that information with extra care. First Republic collects SPI in the same way we collect PI – directly from you and from your interactions with our services, as well as from the sources described above. For example, when you use one of our ATMs we know where that ATM, and therefore you, are located at that moment.

Listed below are the category and description and/or example for types of personal information about you we may have collected or may collect about you. These types of information are PI only if the information identifies, relates to, describes, references, is reasonably capable of being associated with, or could reasonably be linked, directly or indirectly, with you or your household.

Residents of California may also submit a request under the California Consumer Privacy Act as detailed in the section below. Note that First Republic’s ability to provide certain services may depend on our ability to collect and use your personal information; requests to delete required personal information may result in our inability to provide certain services you requested.

9. What Additional Privacy Rights do California Residents Have?

If you are a resident of California, you have certain privacy rights under the California Consumer Privacy Act (“CCPA”) and its amendment: the California Privacy Rights Act (“CPRA”). We honor your Consumer Rights Requests, as described below, and we are prohibited by law and by First Republic policy from discriminating against you for exercising any of your rights.

A. Right to Know

If you are a California resident, you have the right to know what PI we have collected about you, why we collected it, and the categories of third parties (excluding service providers) with whom we have shared your PI, subject to the exemptions and exceptions outlined below. (See below on “How to Submit a Request.”) You may request that we provide a description of the categories of PI we have collected (a “Categories Request”) or a request for access to the specific pieces of PI we have collected (a “Specific Pieces Request”).

If you make a Categories Request, we will need to verify your identity to a reasonable degree of certainty. - Complete a transaction for which we collected the personal information, to provide a product or service you requested, or for purposes reasonably anticipated within the context of our ongoing business relationship with you or otherwise fulfill a contract with you
- Detect security incidents; protect against malicious, deceptive, fraudulent or illegal activity; or prosecute those responsible for that activity

- Comply with a legal obligation

If you make a request for us to delete PI, we may need you to provide us with at least two data elements specific to you so that we can verify your identity. Once we receive and confirm that your request is a verifiable consumer request (see below on “How to Submit a Request”), we will inform you whether we have deleted (and have directed our service providers to delete) your PI from our records, or whether we are declining to grant your request to delete due to an exception to the CCPA deletion requirements.

F. Exceptions

Certain PI is protected by federal and state privacy law other than the CCPA and thus the specific rights described above do not apply in the case where your PI is subject to additional federal and state privacy law. If you are, or apply to become, a customer of First Republic with respect to products or services to be used primarily for personal, family or household purposes, the PI we obtain from you (“Personal Customer Information”) in that context is protected under the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act (“GLBA”) and the specific privacy rights within the CCPA do not apply. That way we will be sure you have fully authorized us to act in accordance with the requests of that individual.

In order to protect your PI from unauthorized disclosure or deletion at the request of someone other than you or your legal representative, First Republic requires identity verification before granting any request to provide copies of, know more about, correct or delete your PI.
